BY SYLVESTER RAWLING. TOHANNA GADSKI, in a pink gown, with a hat of waving plumes and looking altogether charming gave recital in Carnegie Hall vesterday afternoon before an audience that was large and enthusiastic. Frank La Forge was her accompanist. The prima donna was in good voice and used it to the best advantage Her programme was divided into three parts. The first was devoted to compositions of Schubort, of which she gave half a dozen examples the "Lob der Thraenen" winning the most approbation. Then followed examples of Schumann, Franz and Brahms. The third division included songs by Grieg, La Forge and Loewe.

Repetitions were asked for and granted generously. La Forge's "How Much I Love You" was sung three times. At the end the audience crowded to the foot of the stage to pay its tribute and demand extras in the usual cormorant way of those who attend recitals. Performers, perhaps, wouldn't be happy ff this feature were missing. Brunnfillde's Valkyrie cry and "Hark Hark the Lark!" were among these extras. Floral offerings of varied sizes and combinations were handed to the singer and everybody was in happiest mood. Why, as a long-drawn-out and more than usually busy season draws to a close, should a reviewer seek for flaws?

sind electricity. It is proposed to pipe sping water through the streets, the sping water through the streets, the boost prices. The advance in prices was due to actual investment occupation of the land.

If, business and financial conditions had been favorable to speculation during 1907, the rise in suburban land values, acording to the most conservative estimates, would have reached $50,000,000 to discount the new express subways. As it was only half that total, the extra $250,000,000 is expected to be added to prices, with good interest, at the first favorable opportunity.

Speculators who foreses the return of prosperous times are buying suburban land in order to gather the profits which they believe will follow a rapid readjustment of financial conditions. The longer the readjustment is delayed the more decisive they think it will be when it comes. They say that most of the new suburban rapid transit centres have not felt the speculative stimulation which ought to have followed the past year of subway construction and that they will make up the delayed enhancement with a rush, within a short time.

That population is flowing into the new outside transit zones in large volume is shown by the crowded traffic of the shown power are jammed in the busy hours like the Manhattan lines, and so are the McAdoo tunnel trains. Both of those lines are to be opened much further into suburban territory this summer, carrying with them the
